

Silicon UK Editorial Calendar 2025

JANUARY
New Year, New Tech

What innovations are expected in 2025? How will the consumer tech space influence business development.

FEBRUARY
The State of Mobile Tech

What is the current state of mobile services? How has M-commerce evolved? How will AI-enabled mobile devices impact businesses?

MARCH
Technology & Business Transformation

Which technologies are truly transforming businesses, their products, and services? How can enterprises harness these technologies

APRIL
Cybersecurity

What are the current cybersecurity threats businesses face? How can they take practical action to protect their systems and customers from attack?

MAY
Tech & AI

How are businesses harnessing the power of AI? What is the current state of the available AI tools? How should enterprises build an AI future for their companies?

JUNE
Manufacturing

How is technology continuing to influence manufacturing? What is the current state of additive manufacturing? How is AI impacting the manufacturing landscape?

JULY
The State of CX

Enhancing CX has become critical for all businesses. How has CX evolved? How is AI impacting on the tools to deliver world-class CX?

AUGUST
FinTech

New technologies have revolutionised financial services, such as new AI-enhanced services. What is the current state of FinTech, and how will this sector develop in the future?

SEPTEMBER
The Business of Data

All businesses are now data businesses. How can enterprises leverage their data to innovate at speed and deliver world-class CX?

OCTOBER

Recruitment, Tech Skills & Diversity

How are enterprises approaching the continuing skills gap? The current state of women in tech and how diversity and equality are being supported.

NOVEMBER

MarTech

What is the current state of MarTech? How is technology continuing to influence campaigns?

DECEMBER

Looking Ahead to 2026

What innovations and challenges across the tech space will 2026 bring? How can business leaders ensure their enterprises thrive?

Contact

David Howell
Editor-in-Chief
Silicon UK

Mobile : + 44 (0) 7990925 823

Email : dhowell@netmedia.group